It is the belief of the college of education that you are being prepared to teach anywhere in Arkansas or the United States. Therefore, your field experiences must be as diverse as possible. You will not be allowed to complete any field experience in the school district from which you graduated.

OBSERVATION PERIOD and SCHOOL SITES:

The practice of the College of Education has been to place the teacher education student in different school settings for the field experiences. From the approved list of schools on the Level I Site Directory, students will be assigned a public school observation site. Students are required to provide their own transportation to public schools in the surrounding counties. NOTE: The information on the Application Form helps the Coordinator of Field Experiences place you in the best possible site for your program. The process of placement depends on availability of placement slots, population diversity, and location.
